ECi™ Announces New OMD™ Product Manager

FORT WORTH, Texas – April 24, 2008 – eCommerce Industries, Inc. (“ECi”), a leader in industry specific information technology solutions, has promoted Mr. Jim Loskill to Product Manager for its OMD business system. In his new position, Loskill will oversee the day-to-day operation of the documentation and quality assurance teams. He will also guide the continued development of the software, working with both customers and ECi management to ensure that OMD continues to meet the evolving needs of office equipment dealers.

Loskill brings 22 years of OMD experience to his new role. As a programmer, he has helped create OMD system applications, developed interfaces between OMD and various third-party software products, and created conversion programs to help new customers import their data into OMD. Loskill also provided technical support for OMD and other software applications, working in both the customer support department and as an internal IT technician.
